

Sharon Feng, Director of Clinic Quality Control
Department Chair, Gynecology, Five Branches Institute
College & Clinic of Traditional Chinese Medicine

Sharon Feng received her M.D. degree from the Shanghai Second Medical University in Shanghai, People's Republic of China, in 1962. While in China, she was also a student of the prominent doctor Wei Zhi Xin. Dr. Feng has practiced medicine for over 30 years, specializing in OB/GYN, using Western medicine as well as traditional Chinese acupuncture, herbology and acupressure. She acted as out-patient Clinic Director over the Chinese/Western Medical Division from 1978-1984 using Chinese herbs and acupuncture to treat all types of gynecological disorders with great efficacy. She supervised surgeries in OB/GYN and was Chief of Residents at the Second Medical Hospital in Shanghai.

Dr. Feng's specialties within her OB/GYN practice include infertility, PMS, ovarian cysts, endometriosis, irregular menstruation, and breast cysts. She has also researched and practiced ear acupressure for diagnosis and treatment since 1978. She specializes in fatigue syndromes, depression and the treatment of the side effects of radiation and chemotherapy in cancer patients. After coming to the United States, she became licensed as an acupuncturist in California in 1988.

Besides being an active member of the core and clinic faculty at Five Branches University since 1985, Dr. Feng maintains a private practice in San Mateo, California. In 1996, she was a featured speaker at Five Branches International Symposium on Women's TCM. In 1998, and 1999, Sharon lectured at national symposiums on female reproductive cancer and leukemia. Sharon is an avid Chinese opera enthusiast and has helped organize Chinese cultural events with famous Chinese opera singers at Five Branches University.

Dr. Feng teaches in the Departments of TCM Herbology, TCM Clinical Medicine and Clinical Training.
